Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 26 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Windy and colder with showers, at times wintry tonight.

This Evening and Tonight:
During the evening and overnight blustery showers, at times wintry, especially over the hills, push across the region with clearer spells between. Some snow over the highest ground with the risk of a few icy stretches. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Saturday:
A cold start with the chance of a local rural frost. Sunny spells with the odd shower through the morning. Sunshine turning hazier through afternoon with outbreaks of rain later. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Becoming blustery into Sunday with extensive cloud and occasional rain. Drier and brighter on Monday and Tuesday with sunny spells and lighter winds. Turning much warmer.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.